Horse Show.

Announcement comes from Louisville to the effect that the Louisville Horse Show will be held this year during the week of October 11th. It will be held in the First Regiment Armory, which is unsurpassed as a show place for horses. The prize-list has been completed, and the amounts to be awarded will run well over $12,000. The horse-men of the State and the country at large, who regard the Louisville show as the equal of any in the country, will have something worth while to contest for this fall.

Kentucky saddle horses are as famous as Kentucky thoroughbreds, and the Louisville show has always made a large place for them. This year there will be many classes for both the three-gaited and five-gaited saddlers, and they promise to be unusually well filled. The best that have been developed during the Fair season and at the State Fair will be shown, and real championships will be awarded. Mat Cohen, the Ball Brothers, the Gay Brothers, Lawrence Jones and others who own blue-blooded saddle horses will be among the exhibitors.

A Hurry Up Call.

Quick! Mr. Druggist—Quick!—A box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve—Here's a quarter—For the love of Moses, hurry! Baby's burned himself, terribly—Johnnie cut his foot with an axe—Mamie's scalded—Pa can't walk for piles—Billie has boils—and my corns ache. She got it and soon cured all the family. It's the greatest healer on earth. Sold by Paul Drug Co.

A Pike county farmer solved the sheep killing dog problem in a successful way. After he had lost thirty sheep he built in the pasture a square pen of logs and roofed it, but left a big hole in the middle in which he suspended a part of a sheep. Nearly every morning when he went to the pen he found one or more dogs in there which he quietly put out of business. In the course of the winter he caught about forty dogs and didn't lose any more sheep. Moreover, he kept on good terms with his neighbors, which is a hard thing to do if you shoot their dogs and go around bragging about it.

The girls in a certain Kentucky town have organized themselves into a society who have refused to marry any man who drinks, uses tobacco or refuses to take the home paper. Drinking is regarded as the greatest objection, tobacco chewing next, while the young man who don't take the home paper is regarded as not being intellectual. While these Kentucky girls have probably made freaks of themselves by announcing in stentorian tones what requirements are expected of the young men who would seek their hands in matrimony, yet it is a fact that too many sell themselves entirely too cheaply, being stone blind to all that concerns their future happiness. Funny, isn't it that many young girls will trust a fellow with their happiness that the town butcher would not trust with a pound of liver.—Ex.

Dear girls, don't be so often wishing you were grown up women that you will neglect your girlhood. In a rush and hurry of these fast times, there is danger that you will reach and strain after "young ladyhood" too much. Be girls awhile yet—tender, joyous, loving, obedient and industrious. Womanhood, with its privileges and power, its burdens and its trials, will come soon enough. On this point one has said: "Wait patiently, my children, through the whole limit of your girlhood. Go not after womanhood let it come to you. Keep out of public view. Cultivate refinement and modesty. The cares and responsibilities of life will come soon enough. When they come, you will meet them, I trust, as true women should. But, oh, be not so unwise as to throw away your girlhood. Rob not yourself of this beautiful season which, wisely spent, will brighten all your future life."

Night On Bald Mountain.

On a lonely night Alex. Benton of Fort Edward, N. Y., climbed Bald Mountain to the home of a neighbor, tortured by Asthma, bent on curing him with Dr. King's New Discovery, that had cured himself of asthma. This wonderful medicine soon relieved and quickly cured his neighbor. Later it cured his son's wife of a severe lung trouble. Millions believe its the greatest throat and lung cure on Earth. Coughs, Colds, Croup, Hemorrhages and Sore Lungs are surely cured by it. Best for Hay Fever, Grip and Whooping Cough. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Paul Drug Co.

Some time ago a cranky sort of individual came in to this office and stopped his paper because something in it did not just suit his fancy. We have frequently met him on the streets since then and it is amusing to note the look of surprise on the old fellow's face when he realizes that the editor is still in existence, regardless of the fact that we are no longer getting his $1.00. Some day, however—and it will not be long—that old gentleman will turn up his toes. His heart will be stilled forever. There will be a display of pretty posies and crepe and the neighbors and friends will follow his lifeless clay out to the Silent City and lay it to rest in the deep, dark tomb. An obituary will be published in this paper, telling what a kind husband, loving father, good neighbor, beloved citizen, and now progressive and public-spirited he was—which the recording angel will overlook for sweet charity's sake—and in a short time he will be forgotten. As he lies out there in the cold, cold graveyard, wrapped in the silent slumber of death, he will never know the last kind word spoken of him will be by the editor of the paper which he so spitefully "stopped" Have you, gentle reader, ever paused a moment to think that your editor—whoever he may be—will some day write your obituary?—Pemberville (O.) Leader.

My Record.

I climbed to the top of the mountain,
Where there are no trees nor sticks,
And high up there on a crag so bare
Then my name I did affix.
As 'twas cut in stone with a chisel
I thought it was sure to stay,
But loosened by frost its hold was lost
And the stone soon rolled away.
I then sought the sands by the river
That my footprints there might stay,
But the river rose from recent rains
And thus washed my tracks away.
And then on a tree in the forest
I thought my name might be found,
Twas the sturdiest tree then standing,
But a storm soon blew it down.
And thus I found that with every mark
I might seek on earth to place,
An enemy would be sure to meet
And would soon that mark erase.
So then let us hope to reach that land
In the mystic realms above,
Where enemies dare not show their hand
And where all is peace and love.

Even when corn is high the relative price for pork frequently makes it the cheapest feed for finishing; fifty-cent corn is not expensive feed for six-cent hogs. Up to the last six weeks of feeding, wheat, rye or other cheaper substitutes may be used with grass, but in the ordinary course corn will be the best dependence for the close of the fattening period.
